BIKE THE ROCK HEUBACH 2025

The Heubach Mountainbike Festival is the largest bike event in Germany. Various competitions take place, such as marathon, enduro, pump track, and XCO. The XCO race has the highest category below the World Series with HC (hors categorie). This year, it is also used by many as an entry into the European World Series. Among others, the world champion Puck Pieterse (NED) is at the start. The course has three climbs, with the middle one leading almost 100 meters straight up. On the descents, it mostly goes downhill on forest paths over individual rocks and roots. Shortly before the finish area, there is also a short section with small waves, jumps, and tables. The track was very dry and dusty, which made everything very slippery.

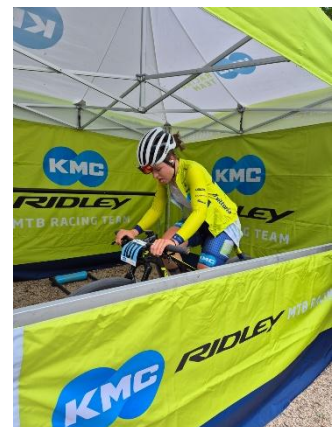

I got off to a good start and led the field up the first hill. Katrin Embacher (AUT), Sina van Thiel (GER), and Elina Benoit (SUI) were right behind me. My legs didn't feel as good as I had hoped. On the second hill, I had to let the three go; I couldn't keep up. It was important for me to find my pace so that I could finish the race. I ultimately finished in 6th place. Katrin won ahead of Sina and Ella Maclean-Howell (GBR) - Congrats!

Apparently, I am still not as recovered and trained as I need to be to keep up with the others. That means doing my homework and getting back on track.

See you
